

MEET YOUR POSTMAN

a modern Superhero

A HANDSOME STORY

It's Friday noon and Michael Smith is at work when suddenly a message pops up on his computer.

IT'S YOUR AUNT'S BIRTHDAY. BE THERE AT 06:30 PM.

He hasn't got a present yet and won't be able to buy one later as he has to work until 06:00 pm.

He decides to buy a book online and tries the "Meet Your Postman Service". This offers him to choose time and destination for his sending and to make an appointment with his postman.

At 06:00 pm work is over and he sets out for his aunt's house. But before he arrives there, he is going to meet a postman who delivers the book sending. To confirm one's identity it is no longer necessary to sign with your name - a single fingerprint is enough.

The fingerprint is taken by shaking the postman's hand and pressing the thumb into the detector. The postman gets a short response via a small screen underneath the fingerprint detector.

All the needed information are transmitted wireless from the postman's car. The glove is charged by the steering wheel via electromagnetic induction.

Mr. Smith is really happy about this fast delivery and his aunt is pleased about her present...
